SECTION B (50 Marks)

51. Read the passage below and in full sentences answer the questions about it.

It is from various materials that we make clothes. Some clothes are made out of cotton, which undergoes several steps in growing it before clothes are produced.

The first step is to clear the garden. This involves cutting down the bushes, uprooting some tree stumps and burning all of them. This is normally done during the dry season. The next step is to plough the garden. This is done when the rains begin. Ploughing can be done using either an ox plough or tractor. The agriculture officers advise that it's good to plough the land several times before planting cotton. This reduces the problem of weeds.

When the garden is completely ready, the cotton seeds are planted in rows and left to grow. As cotton plants grow, the farmer then begins weeding and thinning: Thinning means uprooting some young plants for each bunch so that there are only few left.

After about four months, cotton is ready for picking. This is not the end. Cotton has to be sorted. At this step, the poor cotton is separated from the best one. Finally, the cotton is taken to the ginnery for ginning. When cotton has been ginned, it is taken to textiles where clothes are produced.
