SECTION A

51. Read the passage and use it to answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

That night Abo's mother prepared fish for supper. When supper was ready, Abo was woken up. She sat down to have the meal. But she was still dozing as she ate. Abo's elder brother advised her to be careful about the sharp bones. She shook her head in response. Fish being Abo's favourite soup, she struggled with the head of the fish until she finished it. After about twenty minutes, Abo went back to sleep. She lay on bark cloths, with smelly fingers. She did not wash her hands after eating the fish, so her fingers smelled of fish.

As Abo slept, a rat bit her finger. It was her right thumb that it bit. The rat was attracted by the smell of fish. When Abo woke up the next morning, she felt a sharp pain in her thumb. But she didn't know that a rat had bitten her. She realized it was a rat when her mother told her. Abo's mother knew what the marks of a rat bite looked like. This is because she had been bitten by a rat when she was still young. Fortunately, she did not sustain serious injuries. Abo was unlucky. She fell sick after the rat bite.

The next day, Abo's throat had got swollen. This worried her mother. And she phoned her husband who was busy at his carpentry workshop. On receiving the call, he instructed his wife to take Abo to Kinekewo Hospital. Within a short time, Abo's mother contacted their neighbor, Mr. Gungumula Charles, who drove them to hospital.

At the hospital, caring nurses and doctors attended to Abo. She was admitted for a month. When Abo was discharged, she learnt to always wash her hands with soap and water. And since then, Abo dreads rats.

51. Read this passage and use it to answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

During Christmas holidays, there was a wedding in Tinkula Village. Chakachaka, a primary seven vacationer attended the wedding ceremony. The ceremony took place in Tinkula Church. It began with singing of gospel songs. Chakachaka enjoyed the songs as they waited for the priest.

At midday, Reverend Oliech Ambrose entered the church. He presided over the church service and prayed for the couple. The couple were smartly dressed. The bride, Barbara, as well as the bridegroom, Benjamin, looked happy. Everybody admired them. When the time to exchange vows came, something strange happened. The bridegroom abandoned the bride and ran out of the church. This shocked the congregation. At first the priest thought it was a joke. He too was left confused on the pulpit. Chakachaka could not believe what happened. Imagine this was her first time to attend a wedding ceremony.

Now the bride was left in tears. The best man followed the groom. He tried to persuade him to return to church. But he refused and ran even faster. Meanwhile, the bridesmaid and the priest comforted the bride. When the best man came back, the bride asked him to replace Benjamin. At this time, the best man became the bridegroom. 51. Read this passage and answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

Swengere did not know that his father had returned home. As usual, he reached home walking like a bouncer. This was after school in the evening. Swengere showed bad manners. He did not greet his stepmother. "Woman! I need food here immediately! he shouted. At this time, Swengere's father was seated inside the dining room. But Swengere was not aware that he was in the house.

When Swengere entered the house, his father roared. He said, "I have always got reports about your disrespect for your stepmother. I shall not tolerate this in my house!" After those tough words, the angry father got a stick. He mercilessly hit Swengere's head, and he collapsed at once.

After about ten minutes, Swengere became conscious. He stood up and began shivering before his father. "Dad, I am sorry for being disobedient to my stepmother. Forgive me, please," Swengere pleaded. "I was misled by bad peer groups, but I am ready to change my behavior" he added. When Swengere's stepmother heard this, she forgave him. She asked her husband to forgive her stepson as well. Swengere's father listened to his wife. He quickly asked Swengere to sit down. Together with his wife, they guided and counselled Swengere. At the moment, Swengere is a well – behaved boy. And his stepmother is very proud of him.

53. Read the poem and use it to answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

Farmers, time has come for you to till land
Food we need from your gardens
For us to lead a happy and healthy life
From childhood to adulthood and more
But conserve our environment always.

Farmers, remember to mulch your gardens
For good harvests in flat areas
Follow guidelines to protect our environment
For those in hilly areas, terrace the land
And prevent soil erosion in our environment

Farmers, conserve the environment responsibly
Free your land from plastic materials
For your crops to obtain more moisture
Follow guidelines to apply manure
For good growth of crops in the gardens

27th August 2023

Dear Eliodat,

It is a pleasure to write to you this morning after a long time without communicating to you. Are you doing well at Mbale Primary School? Back to me I am generally fine.

I am writing to wish you a happy birthday. I know what it means to celebrate twelve years. Enjoy your day.

My friend, I would like to know where you are going to celebrate your birthday. You know I can't miss your party.

Next, I wish to know the person you have invited to be the chief guest at the party. I could advise you in this regard.

Lastly, I would like you to tell me the kind of gift you wish to receive from me on your birthday. I don't want to have it as a surprise this time round, so feel free to tell me.

I am waiting for your reply.

Yours sincerely,
Renora.
