SECTION B: (50 MARKS)

51. Read the passage below carefully and answer the questions about it in full sentences.

On the 21st of November, 2014, people woke up to terrifying CCTV images of unbelievable child abuse in Naalya, Wakiso District. Jolly Tumuhirwe, a twenty two year old, was the cruel house keeper that had maltreated Neola, a one and a half year old little girl.

The gruesome video showed Tumuhirwe forcefully feeding her little victim before heavily slapping her in the face. The toddler, due to the continued above acts on her, threw up. Filled with anger, the housekeeper lifted the toddler from the sofa and threw her onto the floor. She then landed a kick in the toddler's small chest and another on the head of the now crying helpless girl. At this moment, the toddler went silent and became unconscious on the floor. Surprisingly, her tormentor was not yet done with her. She then turned her and stamped on her back repeatedly before dragging her away by the arm.

The police apprehended Tumuhirwe and placed torture charges against her on 12th of the following month. She later pleaded guilty before Buganda Road Chief Magistrate's Court on the 15th, She was then sentenced to a four-year imprisonment. "My judgment serves as a reminder to all parents, guardians and all child caretakers of how important it is to restrain themselves from all forms of child abuse," the Magistrate said in his conclusion.

Quite a useful pen
Used near and far, here and there,
My teacher pours red tears,
With it, he decorates my Mathematics

Quite a useful pen,
On duty in various offices, workplaces,
Filling Withdrawal forms in banks,
Held in the cashier's hand to sign forms

Quite a useful pen,
Recording events of all kind worldwide,
For newspapers, TVs and radio stations,
The journalist from Spain uses it.

Quite useful a pen,
This, some people don't know about
Yet it's there when they need it
Thankful I am for its existence.
