Bobi Wine marries Barbie Itungo

Bobi Wine, on Saturday 27th August, 2011 wedded Barbara Itungo at Rubaga Cathedral, Kampala in a ceremony presided over by Archbishop Cyprian Kizito Lwanga. The wedding mass started at 10:00am and ended at 1:00pm.

Lwanga commended the couple for setting a good example to the youth.

"What you have done to come and get married in church shows that you understand your religion and love it because many people knew you as bayaga (weed smokers). I appeal to the youth and all those who have not yet got married in church to follow suit," he said.

Lwanga said he had asked Bobi and Barbie to explain the dreadlocks and tattooing each other's image on their bodies and was satisfied by their explanation. The couple explained to him that tattooing was similar to okutta omukago, a traditional method symbolizing tight friendship.

Bobi Wine's family line has a history of marrying at Rubaga Cathedral. His great grandfather, Gilere Sentamu, wedded Birizita Nalubega at this church in 1891. On February 27, 1920, Bobi's grandfather, Sentamu, walked down the aisle with Martita Nakirija in the same church. Bobi's parents, Jackson Willington Sentamu and Margaret, followed suit on August 7, 1951. "This shows that this family understands the Catholic church and their religion," Lwanga said.

Among the guests present were Sylvia Nagginda, the queen of Buganda, Prince David Wasajja, the Kabaka's brother, Prince Jjunju and several officials from Mengo. Also present were singer Jose Chameleone and his wife Daniela, Chameleon, who recently converted to Islam before making a U-turn to Christianity did not receive Holy Communion. The Archbishop apologised publicly and explained that Chameleon had to go through a religious process before being re-admitted to the Catholic Church as required by the canon law.
