AFTER THE SCHOOL HOLIDAYS:

At the beginning of term one, I received a letter from my brother who stays in South Africa, in his letter, first, he wanted to know about our family and my studies. Secondary, he congratulated me on joining primary seven becoming a candidate in 2019.

Besides Congratulating me, he advised me on several issues. He said, joining primary seven is very exciting but it comes with numerous responsibilities and obligations.

First, one must be very committed from the start of the term if one is to excel. One requires to pay attention in class as well as taking teacher's advice and instructions.

You will have to do all assignments given such as holiday work, homework, weekend work etc. After you have done each, ensure that your book or paper has been handed in for marking.

Soon after the work has been marked, endeavour to write corrections for the numbers you have failed and again hand in for marking.

Apart from academic, my brother advised me to have a high level of discipline not only at school but also at home, he added that most intelligent pupils have not excelled just due to lack of discipline. You will need to respect your teachers, prefects, all elders and fellow pupils. Above all, avoid bad groups but form serious discussion groups.

In his conclusion, he wished me success and he promised to send me a success card third term. I felt touched after reading the letter. It completely changed my life and I have become very serious with my studies. I must go to the school of my first choice.
