Most children in our class like Mr. Takula, the teacher of English. They like his because of the way he organizes his lessons and the methods he uses while teaching us. Whenever he enters the classroom, everyone stands to welcom him and greet him. In response, he either sings a song for us or tells us a short going to teach us about. This makes his teaching special and unique.
Yesterday at 2:00 pm, he entered our classroom and told us a story about blind man who kept his money in a pot, which was hidden in his banan plantation. It was such a funny story that everyone could not help laughing. The sad part of the story was that thieves dug out the blind man's pot and ra away with his savings. At the end of the story, he asked the class what they had learnt, and I was the first to raise my hand. I said that I had learnt to keep our money in a safe plac where thieves cannot reach. The teacher instructed the whole class to clap me for I gave the right answer. "Money should be kept in banks in order to be safe, the teacher said. Then he wrote the topic "Banking" on the blackboard.
He opened his bag and removed a small metallic tin with a very tiny hole. H said that banking can start from the small savings one can afford. Mr Takul added that the small tin can act as a bank, but the money in it may not be ver safe. He advised us to keep money in the bank, especially when it accumulates
"Can children like us save money in banks?" Linda, my closest neighbour asked the teacher. The teacher realized that some of us were asking ourselves how one gets an account in a bank in order to start saving. There was a lot continue excitement and noise, so the teacher commanded the class to have order.
The teacher told the class that children can open accounts in banks with guidance from their parents or guardians. Such accounts are called Junio Accounts.
